CHANDLER, DOUGLAS

Owned a house in Korcula, Yugoslavia; he had converted his money into gold and had it in Luxemburg / he broadcasted from Germany in 1939, in which year he also wrote an article on Yugoslavia forthe National Geographic / definitely pro-Nazi, and was commonly believed to be paid by Germany; paid or not, he could not possibly have been more harmful to the U.S. and England, as he spent his time pointing out our mistakes to people like the barber and little shop keeper who listened and believed because he was an American / left Yugoslavia soon after the war declaration, and it was thought he returned to Germany / very anti-Semitic and pro-Nazi / has a wife and two children.

American woman who lived in Yugoslavia from May 1939 to December 1941

CHRISTIANSEN, General

Military Commander of Holland, and, according to source who knew him in Berlin, a very decent person / relations between him and SEYSS-INQUART are very bad indeed; whenever differences arrive between them, Christiansen is always defeated because Seyss-Inquart is one of the best friends of HIMMLER (GERMANY); Christiansen has twice asked to be released from his post but this was always refused, apparently in view of the fact that he is a General of the Luftwaffe and that Holland is an important air region with its airdromes and factories.

GERMANY June 13-15, 1942

CLODIUS, Dr.

Visited Athens for a few days in June 1942 / held important conferences with LOGOTHETOPOULOS, GOTZMANIS and SANTI (GREECE) concerning general economic questions and the supplying of Greece with the necessities of life / declared Germany intended to continue imports of grain etc, but source is skeptic of such promises/ official circles feared that this visit would be the prelude to further inroads on Greece's depleted economy / seems to have arranged to export to Germany large amounts of coffee from Macedonia and Thrace in return for which Germany will send in food; machines, and agricultural implements.
